COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

Work on the Town Road Improvement is to commence next week. The construction is to be on the Chandler Hill Road. The State Aid will start in two or three weeks on the Greenwood Road, Route 35.

The cutting of trees afflicted with Dutch Elm Disease has started again. This time all trees in an area are to be cut on a basis of 20% of the cost to be charged the owner of the land for trees cut on private property and the town paying 80% of the cost. An attempt is being made to contact the people concerned before trees are cut. This has not been altogether successful as many are away.

State Law provides a town may enter property to inspect and cut infected trees but we would like to inform the owners or occupants of our plans beforehand.

The special town meeting will be held Aug. 24. The articles for the most part will pertain to zoning.

HIGHWAY COMEL AWARDS $6.6 MILLION IN HIGHWAY, BRIDGE WORK IN JULY

The State Highway Commission reports that during the month of July there were twenty highway projects and three bridge projects awarded to contractors totaling an estimated $6,669,439.

Seven Interstate projects were awarded under two contracts in the Augusta-Fairfield area, and in the Bangor area, for additional surfacing to strengthen the existing pavement of the freeway. The work involves a 2.3 mile section in Augusta from south of the Western Avenue interchange to the Route 27 interchange, and a section beginning at the Main Street interchange in Waterville and extending north to U. S. 201 in Fairfield. In Bangor a section of I-93 will be surfaced from the Bulge interchange north 5 miles to Hogan Road and on I-93, the Industrial Spur, from the Bulge running easterly to Main Street. The work includes the reconstruction of the wearing surfaces of several structures.

Three construction contracts were awarded to improve sections of U. S. Route 1. The work in Scarborough will build extra safety into a heavily-traveled portion of U. S. No. 1 between Willowdale Road and Betsey Elementary School. In Bethel about 6.0 of a mile of U. S. 1 will be reconstructed in the vicinity of its junction with Route 3 and Main Street in order to reduce the hazards at the intersection. In Harrington a section of the highway will be modernized by planing just west of the village and extending westerly for about 1.4 miles.

Highway construction will also be carried out in Rumford, West — continued from Page Eight

WAGE-HOUR LAW MAY BE CAUSING DIFFICULTY FOR SOC. SECURITY RECIPIENTS

Although probably a factor overlooked when the new wage-hour law was passed, greater urgency was created by this legislation for the passage of a bill now before Congress by Representative Theodore Kupferman, New York, to permit older people to earn as much as they can without sacrificing any part of their Social Security payments.

The nation's independent proprietors, in a nationwide vote conducted by the National Federation of Independent Business support this measure by a majority of 72 per cent.

The overlooked angle on this situation is being brought to the attention of the Federation by respondents to the continuous year long survey conducted by the organization from respondents who are employing Social Security recipients for light duties.

Typical is the report received from the owner of a coin-operated self-service laundromat in a Kentucky city. This respondent says they are presently employing two women on Social Security solely to have someone on the premises to discourage vandalism.

But the respondent goes on to say that the new minimum wage law raises their costs $1248 per year and when it reaches $1.60 per hour, the added cost will be $2490 per year. Inasmuch as the machines operate on a twenty-five cent coin, there is no chance of raising prices, and there is no possibility of obtaining enough business to offset the increased costs, and thus the profit remaining will not justify the business staying in operation.

But in addition, the increased wages required by law will undoubtedly require many Social Security benefits, or attempt to exist on the payments without supplementing their income, as with payment set by law at $1.60 per hour, no pensioner could be employed at any light duty more than about 3 1/2 hours per day without sacrificing Social Security benefits.

HATHAWAY REPORTS

Rep. William D. Hathaway A frustrating characteristic of the debate on Dickey is the elusiveness of Dickey's opponents.
They frequently pose questions, only to disregard the answers to them when they raise even more alleged questions about Dickey.

Nevertheless all questions, no matter how specious, have been and will continue to be answered.
In a public hearing of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Public Works, the Corps of Army Engineers answered some of the arguments — some new, some old — raised by the opponents of Dickey.

As was stated in the hearing, the comparison which was made on the House floor by a New Hampshire Congressman opposing Dickey between the Dickey-Lincoln project in Maine and the Pontook project in New Hampshire is unsound. The total energy output of Dickey is over 10 times as great as that of Pon-took. Also the estimated power cost on the Pontook project was at the time and did not include transmission costs while the estimated power value of the Dickey-Lincoln project was at the market and included transmission costs.

The Dickey project does not present any treaty problem. All preliminary negotiations with Canada indicate its eagerness to conclude a treaty.

On the opposition's composition of established costs of power generation under the Dickey project with alternative methods of producing power, Senator Bennett of the Corps stated that this subject has been intensively studied and that the studies demonstrate that the Dickey project is sound and that it meets not only the benefit to cost ratio normally required of Federal water resources projects but also meets the comparability tests which assure Federal contribution of the alternatives to the Dickey project. The comparability ratio of the Dickey project is 1.00 and the benefit to cost ratio is 1.00. Both ratios are considered as favorable.

Finally, Senator Bennett at the hearing presented a chart showing the cost of the Dickey project and the North Field Maintenance project to supply the projected peaking power needs of the East demand in the future. The chart clearly demonstrates the future need for the Dickey.

It must be noted that this excellent presentation of the merits of Dickey will influence the Senate in the final vote on the Dickey project.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

There is some evidence around the country of a developing disposition on the part of the people to reject governmental policies and plans for publicly-financed services and facilities which carry with them the immediate penalty of higher taxes.

In school district elections in many parts of the country, the voters have rejected increased school budgets. Oregon provides an example where in a number of important school districts, including that of the state's largest metropolitan area, Portland, higher school budgets have been rejected by the voters. Local governments are closest to the people and voters' dissatisfaction is quickly reflected in election results. In the matter of schools, the connection between tax rates and tax-supported facilities is readily apparent.

When you move out of the local governmental level to that of the state, the connection between state services and facilities provided for the public and the size of the tax bill becomes more obscure. Finally, at the federal level, the average voter apparently has a very difficult time indeed relating his federal income tax to the immense number of federal activities ranging from the Vietnamese war, to city rebuilding, to kindergarten classes. With majority voter approval, the trend in federal spending has been sharply upward. Although nobody at this point really knows, it appears that the federal budget deficit could go as high as $25 billion in the current fiscal year. With this kind of picture shaping up, it seems to be generally taken for granted that there will be a tax increase—perhaps 6 per cent and possibly as high as 10 per cent.
Along with this, there is almost certainly to be an increase in both social security benefits and taxes. And so, the federal government is to do more, and it is to cost more.

Now the question is: what do people think of this? Time magazine reports that Senator Edward Kennedy has found his constituents "less critical of expensive domestic poverty programs that he had foreseen." So many people expressed the hope that a few of the more successful programs such as Head Start might not be cut back. Senator Magnuson of Washington state reports much the same reaction.
But, many people across the

STONE THROWERS BEWARE

The ancient observation, "Whoso house is of glass, must not throw stones at another," applies today to many persons and organizations and to governments in general. One is reminded of its truth on reading the statement of a union leader to the effect that the rising cost of medical care may have to be combatted by setting a "ceiling" on doctor's fees.

Compare the years of study and the money spent to gain a union card in different trades. Anyone who has hired a carpenter, bricklayer, plumber, electrician or automobile mechanic recently is aware of greatly increased charges. Also, just consider the cost of government. Taxes, which are the price of government, are rapidly reaching the point of virtual confiscation of property and savings. The people are to blame for voting for men and measures that promise something free. The tax bill that pays for it is never mentioned, nor the inflation that follows extravagant government. It has truly been said that the art of politics is to make the people country are worried about taxes.

Rejection of school budgets is one manifestation of this worry.
Similar concern is being voiced by influential members of Congress, Senator Proxmire, chairman of the Senate-House Economic Committee, has called on Congress to reduce federal spending rather than raise income taxes. In his view, "If the government has to allocate more of the national resources to defense purposes, we should cut down on the government's other claims on resources. Why should the government go on consuming more than ever when it asks the private sector to consume less?"

By contrast, President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisors and highly respected William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, both urge a tax increase as a counter to inflation. The debate on this issue will probably reach Congress late in August.

In the months ahead, the people will be experiencing the results of policy decisions made in areas of taxation and spending.
The people's approval or disapproval of the rising cost of government, and its effect on taxation and inflation, will eventually be reflected one way or the other at the polls. One might hope that if there is to be a taxpayers' revolt, it does not work to weaken local and state governments. This could profoundly influence the relative power of governmental levels within our federal system.

Somerset, Pa., American: "The Constitution guarantees freedom of speech and freedom of the press, but we are beginning to believe that there is an encroachment by government on this guarantee by the regulatory method. We are thinking particularly of the rules and regulations which are placed upon radio and television through the licensing system. We believe that the broadcasting industry should be as free to criticize government—and even the FCC if the occasion arose—as the newspapers are free to point out weaknesses in government structure. America needs free speech over the air waves, but the rules and regulations of the FCC are going to do more to throttle that freedom than they are to defend it."

like you no matter what it costs

If you check your doctor's charges, you will probably find they have increased less perce-ntagewise than most other costs, and the doctor has the other costs to pay just the same as anybody else. So, if your "house is of glass" don't "throw stones at another."

INFORMED CUSTOMERS

Attacks on advertising are nothing new. Fortunately, it's easy to refute such charges. For years editors have been saying that advertising corrupts the public taste, that it is untruthful and unnecessary. Others contend that it warps consumer loyalty by developing consumer loyalty for particular products and companies.

The world seems to indicate that more firms are more successful in their advertising than others. But the argument that competition can be strengthened by paralyzing those who are successful is not convincing.

Commenting on a proposal of the Federal Trade Commission to restrict advertising Justice John Marshall Harlan of the Supreme Court wrote, "Undoubtedly, advertising may sometimes be used to create irrational brand preferences and mislead consumers as to the actual differences between products, but it is very difficult to discover at what point advertising ceases to be an aspect of healthy competition. It is not the Commission's function to decide which lawful elements of the product or for the consumer, should be considered useful and which should be considered the symptoms of industrial sickness. It is the consumer who must make the decision through the exercise of his purchasing power."

This may be only the view of one Justice, but we think he is on the right track. Commercial advertising serves the essential purpose of informing consumers of the choices open to them. Any impairment of the channels conveying such information would damage the interest of the consuming public.

BETHEL JUNIOR BASEBALL

Agreed by the majority of spectators to have been the most exciting contest of the Red Sox season, last Thursday's game at West Paris doesn't enter the standings—it ended at the close of five innings 7-1. Replay date has not been set because both teams are involved in an invitational Round Robin tournament which starts next week.

Monday night the Red Sox will entertain Locke Mills at home, and play their first game in the tournament against an aggregation coached by Peanut Guilford of South Paris. The game will be played at Mechanic Falls, with a starting time set at 6 o'clock. The Guilford coached teams have always offered stern competition and rooting fans will be welcomed. The loser automatically drops out of further play in the tourney.

The Sox held their winning ways when they met Andover at home, Tuesday night, and are ready to take on the Fathers at the Evergreen Field tonight.

Out at West Bethel, a called Father-Son game turned into a Father-Mother-Sister-Cousin-Brother-Son contest when fatherly strength apparently failed. Coach Don Bennett's wife reports that a good time was had by all as the boys took on all competition and still won.

The Bennett boys visited Locke Mills last Thursday and sustained a 12-9 defeat in a well-played contest. They have a contest set with Dunham's Locke Mills boys at the West Bethel field next Wednesday.

Monday night the Bodwell Boys next season they must get some names on these teams: Bodwell, Bennett and "Butch", are tongue-twisters — went to Locke Mills, and returned victorious. They have invited the boys to play them a return game here next Thursday.

Tonight the Bodwell Fathers meet these boys on the Pony League field, with play to commence as soon after six as possible. A pending game with Andover, date not set as yet, will conclude games for these players.

Note—there will be Father-Son games at both Bethel fields tonight.

Pony League Father-Son game, Monday night.

The 1966 Maine potato crop was estimated at 29,710,000 hundred weight. This crop was harvested from 150,000 acres.

HIGHWAY COMML AWARDS

Gardiner - Gardiner, Limestone and Grafton. In Rumford three projects under one contract will rebuild about 1.6 miles of U.S. 2 in the Virginia area to eliminate a narrow roadway and hazardous curves and grades. The Gardiner-West Gardiner project is a stage in the improvement of Route 120 which is expected to serve an increasing load of traffic when the Interstate is built between Brunswick and West Gardiner. The contract calls for a mile of highway on new location north of the existing road beginning just east of the West Gardiner town line and running westerly to about a mile east of the entrance to the Maine Turnpike. The project along Route 165 in Limestone is about three-quarters of a mile north of town and will fill a gap between the two improved sections of the highway. The work will involve about 1.5 miles of new highway. The Grafton project is for the construction of a section of a section of Route 26 in Grafton Notch State Park. The highway will be rebuilt for 0.3 of a mile and grades reduced to eliminate the present hazardous humps and dips in the road in the vicinity of Mother Walker Falls. In conjunction with this work a series of scenic turnouts will be built in the area.

Three bridges were awarded to contract. In Brewer the outmoded wooden deck structure that carries North Main Street on combined Route 9 and 178 over the Maine Central Railroad tracks will be rebuilt with a prestressed concrete deck. Davis Bridge over Allen Brook on combined Routes 11 and 43 in Exeter will be replaced with a modern structural steel plate arch with a span of 15 feet. Soule Bridge, an old wooden bridge on stone abutments on the Beach Grove Road in Corinth will be replaced by a reinforced concrete rigid frame structure with a 24-foot span.

Two traffic signal projects were awarded. The installation in Sanford will consist of three sets of signals—the Junction of Main (Routes 109 and 4-A) and Washington Streets at U.S. Route 202 and River Street, and the Junction of Route 109 and 11-A in Springvale. In Fairfield signals will be installed on U.S. 201 in the vicinity of the Keyes Fiber Company.

In Newcastle a rest area will be built along U.S. 1 about midway between the communities of Wiscasset and Newcastle overlooking Sherman Lake.

Twelve construction projects were completed during the month of July totaling an estimated $5,112,100. The paving projects along Interstate 95 between Howland and Medway, except for some minor details, officially completed. Highway construction was carried out of U.S. Route 201 in Solon and Bangor, Route 155 in Enfield, Route 6 in Lee and on Route 15 in Rockwood. A portion of Kerns Hill Road in Manchester was rebuilt. The new Milltown International Bridge over the St. Croix River between Calais, Maine and Milltown, New Brunswick, and Sherburne Bridge in Wells were completed. A landscaping project along the Interstate highway between Carmel and Bangor was completed.

On August 1, 1967 the State Highway Commission reported 113 Federal Aid and State projects in various stages of construction. The total estimated cost including preliminary engineering, right of way and construction amounts to: Primary, $11,478,446; Secondary, $5,066,870; Interstate, $26,751,482; Urban, $2,502,206; Highway Beautification Projects, $414,526; State Bridge Act, $557,400; State Projects, $1,165,700; for a Grand total of $47,956,630.

The 113 projects underway include 52 highway and combination highway and bridge projects totaling about 160 miles, 20 bridge projects, 2 signing projects, 1 roadside improvement project, 9 paving projects, 18 beautification projects, 7 guard rail projects and 4 traffic signal projects.
